

Service & Maintenance

The Key to Reliability

A regularly serviced air conditioning or refrigeration system will have higher performance, have a far longer lifespan, and be more energy efficient than a unit which does not receive Planned Preventative Maintenance.

- ✓ Improved efficiency
- ✓ Increased reliability
- ✓ Enhanced system hygiene
- ✓ Ensure business continuity
- ✓ Long term savings

Realised Benefits

Planned preventative maintenance minimises the risk of business interruption by highlighting impending problems before they become costly issues. PPM helps to improve energy efficiency and enhance system optimisation for improved performance, prevent unpleasant odours and improves indoor air quality, as well as ensuring you fully comply with your F-gas regulation obligations.

Business benefits for end users include increased reliability, reduced running costs, quicker payback periods and potentially longer life, plus less carbon emissions.

Service Plans – what makes us different?

With over 60 years' experience and expertise in the air-conditioning and refrigeration industry our service plans offer a preventative maintenance solution that will improve system resilience and increase the longevity of your cooling or heat pump system.

We check mechanical, electrical and refrigeration elements to make sure your system gives you optimum trouble-free operation.

You can opt for our annual Planned Preventative Maintenance plan or save with our three year fixed term contract. Each is tailored to your business and system requirements following an assessment by our technical refrigeration and air-conditioning experts.

We can also offer 24/7 breakdown cover and will support your needs from any one of our five regional service centres manned by friendly approachable staff. Appointments for maintenance visits can be scheduled in advance, at a time convenient to you.
